

Q: Ready, set, blog?

Contributed by Questions Answers
Tuesday, 08 April 2008

Q: Renae says, "I look at this blog every other night b/f going to bed, wanting to read something new. I have really liked reading what has been posted so far.

It's seems like this blog is off to a slow start. I hope that it takes off and becomes a really big hit with all Mom's."

A: I am glad to hear you are enjoying the MomsBlog! Our panel of Moms will begin posting blogs more frequently very soon, so please keep checking back as often as you like. Another great way to participate is by adding your own thoughts, memories and tips. You can do this by posting comments to the main blog entries as well as the Q&A section. You can also upload photos and videos from your trips to Silver Dollar City to share with other Moms. Do you remember your first visit to the City or maybe your child's first visit? Please share your memories with us by posting a comment to the blog entry titled "What's your earliest City memory?" Maybe a unique experience you've had at the City is just the thing that will get Moms talking.